

Access to Synagogue Complex

Weekdays and Sunday Services

Entrance

Access for services (morning, afternoon and evening) is through car park with entry to the Synagogue Building through the Beit Hamidrash.

Access to the car park is through electronically operated gates on London Road (key fobs for automatic operation available from Synagogue office) or through pedestrian gate adjacent to the front of the building on the left hand side. Operating the pedestrian gate for entrance is by coded key pad.

The Beit Hamidrash door is towards the rear of the building on the left hand side of the Synagogue and is also operated by coded key pad.

If you are unable to gain access through car park and Beit Hamidrash door there is a bell on the left hand side of the main Synagogue doors. Please ring this and someone will come to entrance. This may take a moment or two.

Please note this bell is to gain access to the Synagogue only before or during weekday service times. For access to the building generally and to Synagogue offices please read section below “Weekdays and Sunday Daytime access”

Exit

If you are exiting car park by car please drive slowly towards gates at rear of car park exiting onto Reenglass Road and gates will open automatically and close automatically after car has passed through. There is no exit onto London Road through front gates.

If you are leaving on foot pedestrian gates open from the inside without using key pad, simply turn knob below handle and pull door towards you. In addition to the pedestrian gate adjacent to the car park entrance there are also gates adjacent to the car park exit gate, and at the front of the Synagogue building on the right hand side.
